- A. Catholic applicants need a letter from a Catholic authority that recommends the applicant for study at CTI.
 - B. CTI will contact the superiors of ex-seminarians for their recommendation concerning admission.
 - C. Non-Catholic applicants need both a letter from a Catholic authority that guarantees the applicant's moral character and goodwill toward the Catholic Church and a letter from an authority in their own church that recommends the applicant for study at CTI.
 - D. If an applicant is not a member of any church, the applicant needs a letter from a Catholic authority and a letter from a community leader or a former teacher.
- These letters cannot be general recommendations; they need to be specifically for studying at CTI.

Program and Enrollment

CTI runs a two-year philosophy programme, a four-year theology programme, and a four-year mixed programme (Bachelor of Christian Studies). A student must have previously completed philosophical studies – or a religious studies programme with a philosophy component – in order to be eligible for the theology programme. The Bachelor of Christian Studies is about two years of philosophical studies, including a philosophy research paper, followed by two years of theological studies and a theology research paper. This award is specially designed for external students, although they may pursue one of the other degrees instead. There are also Certificates available in these disciplines for part-time students.

The philosophy programme can be completed at a higher or lower level, depending on the ability and interest of the student. Most full-time students start out pursuing the Diploma in Philosophy and then may move into the Diploma in Philosophical Studies in the second year. The theology program is offered at three different levels. The Dean will enrol the student at one of the levels depending on the ability and interest of the student. A student must have completed our Diploma in Philosophy or a similarly rigorous programme in order to be eligible for the Bachelor of Sacred Theology.

CTI is registered with the PNG Department of Higher Education, Research, Science, and Technology (DHERST). Its academic programs are accredited with DHERST. CTI is also affiliated with the Pontifical and Royal University of Santo Tomas (UST) in the Philippines, and that institution awards a Bachelor of Sacred Theology to Catholic students who complete all the requirements. Non-Catholic students who complete the same requirements receive a Bachelor of Theology – Research Concentration from CTI.
